*If you haven't invited Christ Jesus to be your Lord and Savior,
I invite you to do it now.*

Father God, I believe Jesus Christ is your Son,
The Savior of the world.
I believe He died on the cross for me,
And He bore all of my sins.
He paid the price for my sins.
He took the punishment I deserved,
And is now seated at your right hand.
I need you, Jesus.
Forgive my sins, save me,
Come to live inside me.
I want to be born again.
I now confess you as my Lord and Savior.
Amen.

The trustees have several projects that need to be completed. If you would like to volunteer for any of these tasks, it would be greatly appreciated. The new boiler room and the pantry need painted with water-proofing paint. The women's bathroom off of the fellowship hall needs to have two toilets replaced. All materials will be supplied. If you are able and willing to take on any of these tasks in a timely fashion, please sign the clipboard on the welcome center.

After the final notes concluded at a recent symphony performance in Boston, the conductor hadn't yet lowered his baton when a child exclaimed, "Wow!" The break in protocol, magnified by excellent acoustics, didn't upset the participants or audience, however. Instead, several later said it brought them great joy. One even called the moment life-changing.

The incident was especially meaningful because the child, a 9-year-old named Ronan, has autism and is generally nonverbal. Music, his family says, tends to attract his interest and make him happy. When symphony officials learned Ronan's identity, they arranged a private performance so he could meet some musicians.

How often do you shout "Wow!" — in a good way — at what you see and hear? You may tend to do so on vacation or while observing God's natural wonders, but what about during your day-to-day life? Think about the people you encounter and their talents — and your own. When have these sparked a "Wow!" of thanks to God?

Every blessing, large or small, is a wow-moment — a gift from God that warrants our praise.
